$100,000 PEACE PLAN PRIZE AWARDED

Advocates Entering World Court and Cooperation With League Without Full Membership at Present—Suggests League Membership Be Opened to All Nations and Provides for Development of International Law.

The American Peace Award brought forth 22,165 plans and many thousands of letters. Since many of the plans were the composite work of organizations, universities, etc., a single plan often represented the views of hundreds or thousands of individuals. The content of these plans is therefore an index of the true feeling and judgment of hundreds of thousands of American citizens.

These plans come from every group in American life. Some are obviously from lifelong students of history and international law. Some are from persons who have studied little, but who have themselves seen and felt the horror of war—or who are even now living out its tragedy.

But among them all are these dominant currents: that, if war is honestly to be prevented, there must be a face-about on the part of the nations in their attitude toward it; that by some progressive agreement the manufacture and purchase of the munitions of war must be limited or stopped; that while no political mechanism alone will insure cooperation among the nations, there must be some machinery of cooperation if the will to cooperate is to be made effective; that mutual counsel among the nations is the real hope for bringing about the disavowal of war by the open avowal of its real causes and open discussion of them; and finally that there must be some means of defining, recording, interpreting and developing the law of nations.

Statement of Jury of Award

The Jury of Award realizes that there is no one approach to world peace, and that it is necessary to recognize not merely political but also psychological and economic factors.

I. ENTER THE PERMANENT COURT

That the United States adhere to the Permanent Court of International Justice for the reasons and under the conditions stated by Secretary Hughes and President Harding in February, 1923.

II. COOPERATE WITH THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS, WITHOUT FULL MEMBERSHIP AT PRESENT

That without becoming a member of the League of Nations as at present constituted, the United States Government should extend its present cooperation with the League and propose participation in the work of its Assembly and Council under the following conditions and reservations:

Safeguarding of Monroe Doctrine

1. The United States accepts the League of Nations as an instrument of mutual counsel, but it will assume no obligation to interfere with political questions of policy or internal administration of any foreign state.

In uniting its efforts with those of other States for the preservation of peace and the promotion of the common welfare, the United States insists upon the safeguarding of the Monroe Doctrine and does not abandon its traditional attitude concerning American independence of the Old World and does not consent to submit its long established policy concerning questions regarded by it as purely American to the recommendation or decision of other Powers.

No Military or Economic Force

2. That the only kind of compulsion which nations can freely engage to apply to each other in the name of Peace is that which arises from conference, from moral judgment, from full publicity, and from the power of public opinion.

The United States would assume no obligations under Article X in its present form, or under Article XVI in its present form in the Covenant, or in its amended form as now proposed, unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.

The United States proposes that Articles X and XVI be either dropped altogether or so amended and changed as to eliminate any suggestion of a general agreement to use coercion for obtaining conformity to the pledges of the Covenant.

No Obligations Under Versailles Treaty

3. That the United States will accept no responsibilities under the Treaty of Versailles unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.

League Open to All Nations

4. The United States Government proposes that Article I of the Covenant be construed and applied, or, if necessary, re-drafted, so that admission to the League shall be assured to any self-governing State that wishes to join and that receives the favorable vote of two-thirds of the Assembly.

Development of International Law

5. As a condition of its participation in the work and counsels of the League, the United States asks that the Assembly and Council consent—or obtain authority—to begin collaboration for the revision and development of international law, employing for this purpose the aid of a commission of jurists. This Commission would be directed to formulate anew existing rules of the law of nations, to reconcile divergent opinions, to consider points hitherto inadequately provided for but vital to the maintenance of international justice, and in general to define the social rights and duties of States. The recommendations of the Commission would be presented from time to time, in proper form for consideration, to the Assembly as to a recommending if not a law-making body.

Author's Name Not to Be Revealed Until After Referendum

In order that the vote may be taken solely upon the merits of the plan, the Policy Committee, with the acquiescence of Mr. Bok, has decided not to disclose the authorship of the plan until after the referendum. The identity is unknown to the members of the Jury of Award and the Policy Committee, except one delegated member.

MOKENA COLDEST SPOT

D. Kolber of Mokena claims he had the coldest corner in this part of the country during the cold snap last Saturday when a thermometer hanging on an exposed northwest corner at his place registered 31 degrees below zero.

DAIRYMEN ACCUSED OF "BOOTLEGGING" MILK TO CHICAGO

The milk strike situation has not shown much change during the past week with the exception that the fight seems more stronger and the dairymen are more determined to hold out with the exception of a few who have started to exhibit a yellow streak. These dairymen are ready to take all the benefits of the organization they belong to but are quick to desert the rest of the members in an emergency.

At a meeting of the Milk Producers Association held at Crete on Monday charges were made that milk bootlegging is being carried on in Joliet and that milk is being shipped from Joliet to Chicago dealers.

According to Clarence Cleveland, Will County director of the Association, many farmers are shipping their milk to Joliet. These producers sold their milk to the Bowman plant at Mokena. From Joliet the milk is being shipped to Chicago, Mr. Cleveland said, and is being given to the large distributors in that city.

The aid of the city health board of Chicago has been obtained and an investigation is now on in Chicago and Joliet to determine the parties guilty of milk "bootlegging" and all milk producers must have a permit from the Chicago health department to ship milk into the city.

A number of can shippers who are also members of the Association have signed up with independent dealers in Chicago who are paying the Association price and have begun shipping milk to them which is permitted by the Association as the price paid is the same as has been fixed by the Association. George Warning signed up with a dealer in Chicago at the Association price and has started shipping. Wednesday he got a letter from his dealer saying a number of the striking dairymen from Mokena have come to him asking him to take their milk and turn down Mr. Warning. He said he was ready to give the names to Mr. Warning anytime he wanted them. It is too bad that the farmers who represent the biggest business on the face of the earth cannot stick together instead of trying to cut each other's throat. The farmers will never get anywhere if they do not stand firm like other union organizations.

JACK ZEEMAN OF MOKENA IS FRIGID WAVE VICTIM

Mokena had one victim of the extreme cold snap of Saturday morning when Jack Zeeman residing southeast of Mokena froze his face badly while walking to the village to take a train for Joliet. Mr. Zeeman is employed at the "J" office in Joliet and usually goes back and forth to his work in his auto, but during the cold snap his car was frozen so he started to walk to Mokena about half a mile distant and when half way he felt his face getting cold but he decided to keep on going. Soon as he reached the depot Mr. J. C. Nielson saw that his face was frozen. The snow cure was used. A number of Mr. Zeeman's friends assisted Mr. Nielsen in applying the snow. Dr. E. McMahon was called and Mr. Zeeman was taken home. He suffered much pain for several days. When the snow was first applied his face was frozen hard.

D. R. ANDERSON LOGICAL CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESSMAN

The old cry of "God give us men" surely holds more than good today, for politically speaking we have but few real men in most of the public offices today. We have an over abundance of politicians for office holders whose chief ambition is not to serve their constituents, but to draw a fat salary and feed at the public crib. Just before election we see these politicians going up and down the land telling the "dear people" how much they have their interests at heart, and soon as they are elected they forget all about them. What America needs today is real men in politics who will enforce the laws of the land and will truly represent the people by whom they are chosen.

This holds good near at home as well as nationally. Will County and this congressional district should by all means be well represented in congress and the voters of the district should look well as to whom they designate to fill this position of trust.

The News-Bulletin is not given to throwing boquets promiscuously but it feels credit should be given where it is due and therefore it does not hesitate to endorse whole heartedly D. R. Anderson of Joliet as the logical man to represent this district in congress. Mr. Anderson is highly respected in both his professional and private life and is a real man in every sense of the word who The News-Bulletin feels will give his constituents the very best of representation if elected. His past record in public office is one of efficiency and real service. Mr. Anderson stands high in the fraternal world and is known as a staunch Republican and a strong advocate of the true principals of Republicanism and a man with a keen sense of honor and justice.

The voters of this district should cast a solid vote for Mr. Anderson at the April primaries. He is not a millionaire and has no strong strings tied to him. He is one of the common people and as such is most eminently fit to serve them well. Let our slogan be "Vote for Anderson for congress at the April Primary."

FRANKFORT ATTORNEY ASKED TO RUN FOR STATE'S ATTORNEY

A. H. Krusemark of Frankfort a widely known attorney with offices in the Barber building, Joliet looms on the political horizon as a possible candidate for the office of State's Attorney for Will County. The many friends of Mr. Krusemark have been prevailing on him to enter the race, but thus far he has not fully decided just what to do. He will give his decision in the matter at an early date, no doubt.

FRANKFORT MULE CASE MAY GO BEFORE APPELATE COURT

The now country famous Frankfort mule case in which Levi Doty, 83 year old Frankfort Humane Society officer figures prominently, is a hard case to follow. It bobbed up again last Saturday when Judge Hill of the Circuit court refused to grant a new trial. This case was recently tried and a jury returned a verdict against Mr. Doty. The latter says he is going to see the case thru to a finish and is seriously thinking of appealing the case to the Appellate Court at Ottawa.

The prize masque ball which was to have been held Saturday by the Frankfort ball club will be held Jan. 19 instead.

COLD WEATHER DOES NOT STOP CUPID AT ORLAND

The cold snap last Saturday held no terrors for Dan Cupid for on that evening the wedding of Miss Anna Habenicht and Charles Burkhardt was solemnized at the home of the bride. Rev. Reinke of the Lutheran church of Blue Island officiated.

A host of friends extend congratulations.

According to notices from the village dads all vehicle licenses must be paid up by January 15.

Miss Rena Habenicht is on the sick list.

LUTHERAN CHURCH ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual congregational meeting and election of officers of the Christ Lutheran church was held at the church last Sunday as follows:

C. F. Habenicht re-elected as chairman, John Habenicht, Treasurer, Wm. Grosskopf, school trustee.

The cold snap sent the mercury down to 23 below zero in Orland.

On Monday evening the monthly board meeting of the city dads will be held. The water main question is scheduled to be the main topic to be considered by the city dads.

James Cannon, a former Orland resident is now located at Brethren, Michigan according to a letter just received from him by the editor of the News-Bulletin. He is engaged in the shrubbery business.

MISS BERTHA BENSON IS VOTED MOKENA'S POPULAR LADY

Miss Bertha Benson is the most popular young lady in Mokena according to the amount of votes she received in the popular lady contest of the Don C. Hall Medicine Show which closed at Hatch hall last Saturday night. When the votes had been counted Miss Benson was declared the most popular young lady and was presented with a silver fruit dish as a prize.

In the bean guessing contest which came to a close the same night the contest ended in a tie between Mrs. George Marti, Jr., and Mrs. O. J. Klose. Lots were drawn and Mrs. Marti won out.

TINLEY PARK CITY DADS PROVIDE SKATING RINK

The village dads of Tinley Park have lent a hand in providing one of the biggest of winter sports—by flooding the school grounds to make a skating rink. The sport has been much enjoyed until the mild weather came along and spoiled it. During the cold snap ice froze 8 inches thick in some of the ponds.

Several cases of frost bitten ears and noses have been reported, but none of the cases were serious. Miss Breithbarth, daughter of John Breithbarth is said to have had her face frozen while walking home from the train Saturday night.

On account of the cold wave no services were held at the German M. E. church. Only five pupils ventured out to Sunday school.

Rev. Zeummer visited in Chicago Monday.

The annual stockholders meeting and election of officers of the Bremen State Bank will be held at the bank on Saturday afternoon of this week.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.

The SANDMAN STORY

KING IN NAME ONLY

KING OBERON is the husband of the Fairy Queen, but though he is King his power is very limited, for the only time he has any power at all is between night and day.

This of course makes him very discontented, for while he is a King there is not much fun in being one if you cannot rule somebody or something.

The fairies were all very respectful and addressed him as "Your Majesty" always, but it was to their Queen they looked for orders and not to King Oberon.

The Queen had to be very careful of her subjects and of herself as well at the hour between day and night because her King was always looking for a chance to display his power, which was of so short duration.

Once he had used this power to send all the fairies flying over a deep, wide river which he knew would frighten them very much because the fairies do not like the water, and he had sent all the Goblins running toward them when they reached the opposite bank, hoping to scare them so they would drop their wands into the river.

King Oberon is a very meek husband when he has no power, but during his hour the Queen has a great deal to contend with, and one day she decided something must be done to make him behave when the hour between day and night came around.

King Oberon had always had a very easy time living in the fairy palace. He was waited upon and never had to do any work at all. But one day the Queen ordered him to scrub the palace inside and out.

Of course he made a great fuss and said he was a King and it was degrading for him to work, but the Queen only answered that he must work or she would use her power to make him something else than a Fairy King.

This so scared Oberon that he took off his crown and kingly robes and called for a pail and brush and went to work.

All day he scrubbed and into the night, for the Queen would not let him rest. "You will have time to rest," she told him, "when your hour comes to rule."

At last his hour arrived, but he was so tired he could only drop his scrubbing brush and fall asleep upon the ground, for he was still scrubbing the outside of the palace when his power began.

King Oberon slept all through the hour he might rule, and the minute it ended the Queen awoke him and set him to work again.

He was only allowed to stop for his cup of dewdrop tea and lunch which the fairies brought to him, and then the Queen ordered him to work again.

All day, day in and out, he worked, sleeping only when his hour to reign came around. At last he begged the Queen to be merciful and let him go back to his old way of living.

"I will see how you behave," said the Queen. "If once you dare to use your power to bother my fairies or to bother me, back to your scrubbing you go."

Meekly King Oberon put on his robes and placed his crown on his head and mounted his throne and there he sits day by day—a King in name only. And when the hour between day and night arrives King Oberon is in bed sound asleep, for he knows that once he displeases his Queen again he will work for the rest of his days. And what is the use of being a King, he thinks, if you can't sit on a throne? Even if he has no power it is better than scrubbing.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

FOOLING GHOSTS

AN OLD-TIME superstition which is still occasionally met with in the rural districts is that a funeral procession should not return from the cemetery to the house by the same route which it traversed before.

In Virginia there is a prevalent superstition among the colored population that after a funeral from the house the position of the door-knobs should be changed. The Virginia negro frankly says that this change is made so that "the ghost cannot find his way in." The first superstition mentioned is of a kindred nature and had originally a like purpose. It was to throw the ghost of the departed off the trail so that he could not find his way back to the house. Along the Carolina coast a stake is sometimes driven through a grave as soon as a body is buried to keep the ghost of the deceased from "haunting."

Among the peasants all over Europe there are similar superstitions to these and among all savage tribes kindred precautions are taken to keep away the spirits of the departed. The customs under consideration are not related to the superstitious—which are many—concerning the protection against ghosts by means of "charms" but have to do with primitive man's conception of the spirits of the dead as entities which could be "physically" controlled by sympathetic magic and easily deceived by the more vigorous spirits embodied in the living. That primitive idea is the basis of the modern superstitions mentioned above.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

JOAN

JOAN is the feminine counterpart of John, and yet it has never had the common vogue of that most popular of male proper names. Joan signifies "gift of the Lord" and there is considerable question as to whether its origin was English or Teutonic.

At any event, the name first made its appearance as Joanna and is said to have originated with Joanna, holy woman of the Gospel. She was never canonized, so it is believed that the name was adopted rather in honor of one of the Saint Johns than as a tribute to her, particularly as there are 30 feasts of Saint John on the Roman calendar and only two in honor of Joanna.

In the Twelfth century the name began to be used with inexplicable frequency in southern France, when ladies named Juana in Spanish, and Jehanne or Jeanne in French, married into every royal family of the time. The first English princess so called was the daughter of Henry II. Indeed, almost every king had a daughter Joan or Jhane.

Joan Makepeace was the name given to the daughter of Edward II when the long war with the Bruce was partly pacified by her marriage. Another famous Joan was Jean Beaufort, the maiden romantically beloved by the captive James I. As his widow she so fiercely revenged his death, it will be recalled.

Curiously enough, Hannah is derived from Joan through the German favorite peasant name, Johanna. Hannah, however, is purely English. For a time Joan, favorite name of queens, lost vogue in England and descended to the cottage and kitchen. It became the name for domestics, and in this day of servant problems one might well understand how it came to mean "gift of the Lord."

Joan's talismanic jewel is the hellebore or bloodstone. It is an opaque stone, deep green in color, and sprinkled with red jasper as with blood. It promises staunch affection and true love for the wearer, whose lucky day is Saturday and whose mystic number is 4.

Trilby Clark

South Australia is the birthplace of Trilby Clark, the "movie" star. Her parents were among the early settlers of that distant land, and she had considerable experience in musical comedy and dramatic stock productions there before coming to the United States. Aside from taking part in a war propaganda picture in Australia, she was new to the screen until she landed in Hollywood. Miss Clark has brown eyes, Titian hair, fair complexion, is five feet four in height and her favorite exercise is horseback riding.

The old English law—enforced in comparatively recent times—which directed that a certain class of malefactors should, after execution, be buried at a crossroads with a stake driven through the grave was but a legal enactment of this primitive superstition.

YOUR HAND

How to read your characteristics and tendencies—the capabilities or weaknesses that make for success or failure as shown in your palm.

CARRIAGE AND MOTIONS OF THE HANDS

WHILE the characteristics, tendencies, propensities, etc., of a person may be read best from the lines, the mounts and the signs of the hands, all taken together and to each assigned its proper significance, much may also be learned from the manner in which the subject carries his or her hands and moves them. Of course, this must be studied when the subject does not know that he is under observation, since otherwise he may hold his hand, or move it, in a strained, unnatural manner.

For example, when the person is of an open, frank nature, he will have little to conceal, and will open his hand or palm freely to the gaze. The hand of one whose thoughts and life need concealment will close more or less tightly, and the fingers will endeavor to hide the palm, as it were. Note, therefore, whether the subject seems bent on hiding his palm, even before he knows that he is under observation, and deduce therefrom a secretive nature.

Unsinkable Lifeboat

Accidental Invention

One the most extraordinary cases of what may be called an accidental invention is that of the lifeboat. A man named Wouldhave was out walking one day when he was asked by an old woman to help her lift a can of water which she had filled by means of a broken wooden bowl.

The bowl was floating on the surface of the water, and as he talked to the woman, Wouldhave turned it over with his finger. It immediately righted itself. Amused by its antics he repeated the performance; then it struck him that he had made a wonderful discovery. The result of his chance meeting was the self-righting lifeboat, which was designed by him on the lines of the broken bowl.

What he had discovered was that anything made of floating material and shaped like one-half of a basin could float only with its convex surface downward. A boat made on these lines cannot remain upside down for more than an instant when it is turned over by a heavy sea.

The Economical Quality Car

Chevrolet prices are not the lowest on the market, yet Chevrolet economical transportation averages lowest in cost. This average cost considers the purchase price, interest on investment, depreciation and all operating and maintenance costs.

A detailed comparison with any other car in the low priced field will convince you that Chevrolet is the best buy because of its superior quality and because the purchase price includes full equipment.

More than a million Chevrolets are now in use. Twelve huge plants are now building them at the rate of twenty-five hundred per working day. Nearly one-half million Chevrolets were bought in 1923—far exceeding in number the sales of any other quality car.

Thus, our statements have the strongest possible backing, namely, the faith and patronage of the American people who know automobiles and know practical values better than any other people on earth.

Let any one of our seven thousand dealers show you our seven types of cars and explain how easy it is to get one and enjoy its use.

Secret of Stradivari

Discovered by Chemists

Modern science at last appears to have rediscovered the secret of making superviolins—a secret that was understood by Stradivari and other old masters of the Seventeenth century, and that was buried with them.

Analysis of the thin wood sections of the violins of the old masters has been made by a European chemist, who has discovered that the secret of their tune lay in imparting an artificial uniformity to the wood, an effect produced by an oil treatment, combined with months of sun-drying and a special varnish.

Violins constructed according to the methods which the laboratory revealed are said to match the old master instruments in tone.—Popular Science Monthly.

Malic Acid.

Malic acid is present in generous quantities in apples, pears red and white currants, blackberries and raspberries, quinces, pineapple and cherries. Citric acid is found in lemons, limes, oranges, gooseberries, strawberries and raspberries, and tartaric acid predominates in grapes, though it exists in other fruits. Salicylic acid is sparingly present, probably in the form of menthyl ester, in plums, cherries, currants, grapes and strawberries, raspberries, etc. Boric acid is said to be present in oranges and lemons.

Penetration of Light.

The limit that light can penetrate the ocean is somewhere between 600 and 900 fathoms, which is 3,600 to 5,400 feet. The penetration of light rays into the depths of the ocean is measured by a photometer. Some of the light rays are reflected, others penetrate and are gradually absorbed at different depths, according to the wave length and to the clearness of the water. The dark rays are absorbed most quickly in the uppermost layers; the light rays penetrate deeper, while the blue rays penetrate deepest of all.

One Base for Your Dry Cell, Rheostat

Mounting Experimenter Can Build Very Easily in Own Shop.

When the experimenter desires to keep his instruments separate, that is, not all sharing the same panel, but each instrument having an individual base and panel, the following is a convenient assembly of the parts involved directly or indirectly with the filament-lighting circuit:

A base is made from three-quarter-inch board, 6 inches long and 4 inches wide. A board three-eighths inch in thickness, 7 inches long and 4 inches wide will serve for a panel. These boards are finished smoothly with sandpaper. The panel is attached to the base with two screws and holes are drilled for the rheostat and binding posts in the approximate positions shown in the sketch; screw holes are drilled in the base for semi-permanent mounting.

A cup for holding the dry cell in place is made from the lower end of a cylindrical cardboard box (such as a mailing tube, with bottom), which is screwed to the base, allowing sufficient space on the latter, next to the panel, to mount the tube-socket. The panel, base and cup are painted with a flat-black paint; when the paint is dry, shellac is applied.

The rheostat, grid condenser and leak, and the "antenna" and "plate" binding posts are mounted on the panel; the cup and tube socket are on the base. Connections are made as follows: From antenna binding post to GL and condenser, thence to grid terminal on socket; from one terminal of rheostat to one filament terminal on socket; from other terminal of rheostat to dry cell, thence to remaining filament terminal on socket; from plate terminal on socket to plate binding post on panel.—Radio Digest.

RADIO RHYMES

By Robert Stewart Sutcliffe.

THE ISOLATED

Press reports daily describe cases of men who live in the lonely wastes of the Far North and the desert lands. Radio has proved a priceless blessing to them in their loneliness.

YOU stay-at-home folks,
With your comfort and jokes,
Who sit while the north winds blow
With your wives and your chicks,
And your bright, blazing stoves,
Or the cheer of your big stoves glow;
Have you given a thought
To the fellow who's caught
Up north in the drear and the snow?

When the heat of your day
Has at last passed away,
And dimmed is your midsummer sun,
When you're nearby your fan,
Have you thought of the man
Who camps where the heat waves run;
Have you given a thought
To the one who has naught
Of companionship when day is done?

There is many a chap,
Who lives near a trap
Way up 'neath Aurora's bright glow,
Who is chilled to the bone
As he dwells there alone,
But who's thankful he's now radio;
Like the ones who hard fate
In the heat isolate,
He's a friend there at hand in the snow.

Lights and Shadows of Home Life

By REV. J. R. SCHAFER

Superintendent of Men, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—Cast out this bondswoman and her son; for the son of this bondswoman shall not be heir with Isaac.—Gen. 21:10.

Many factors in this old story are familiar. The experiences recorded here are being relived in the home life of today.

How frequent the birth of a baby. As ticks the clock a child is born. The miracle of the ages continues to be performed. A bright star of hope and joy breaks forth in the sky that over-arches the tent or cottage—the hovel or the palace, and its light streams into two hearts with unprecedented radiance.

But of all the tales of burning babes, Abraham told one that is unsurpassed. Its circumstances raise the common miracle of childhood to its nth power. The patriarch had just rounded out a full century, while his wife was but ten years younger, when the long hoped-for child arrived. Event extraordinary—to account for it—impossible, to human reason and understanding! Only one word can explain—God.

Years of married life for Abraham and Sarah were crowded with strange and unique events. Almost every conceivable experience came to them in some form, except that crowning glory of all home life and wedded hearts, the birth of a baby. For such an event they had hoped and prayed and waited, but in vain, until one day Abraham could endure it no longer. Out of his agony of disappointment he cried unto God for a son and heir. Immediately God answered him. He took the longing patriarch out under the stars and told him such should his seed be. With greater expectancy they prayed and waited—years passed—their hearts grew faint at hope deferred. They could not understand. They were tortured with disappointment.

Then Sarah planned an expedient. She would help fulfill God's promise. Ishmael was born of Hagar the bond-slave in Abraham's household. Dark shadows overspread the sky. They cast baleful suspicion into the home life of this godly couple. The years continued to go by and the shadows deepened. But one day—at the set time—the heir of promise came to Abraham's tent—a boy. Sarah was his mother. Unbounded joy flooded these aged lives. So wonderful was it all that they named him "Laughter." Faith had prevailed.

Months went by and again joy's sky was clouded—the light obscured by darker clouds than ever. Hagar and her boy shared Abraham's home life—but it could not continue. A day came when Sarah caught Ishmael mocking Isaac—that was enough—it was the last straw. Hagar must go.

The thing was very grievous to Abraham. He loved the boy Ishmael. But there was no choice. Out into the desert they went. The shadows one by one disappeared.

This experience has been written in Genesis for our learning. The Apostle Paul explains. It is a foreshadowing of the inharmonious of two great principles—Law and Grace. The one represented by Hagar, the bondswoman, and her son, and the other by Sarah, the free woman, and her son. Ishmael could remain only until Isaac was born. Both could not live together.

Neither can law and grace live together in the House of God. The law with its "do and thou shalt live" continued until Christ came, bringing the grace of God to men. He became "the end of the law, for righteousness," so that all who believe are free from the law and no longer in bondage. Equally true is it that law and grace cannot live together in the House of God. The law was given at Sinai with clouds and darkness, earthquake and thunder until Israel trembled with terror. God was revealed as the "All Terrible—Mighty Avenger," exacting justice and executing judgment upon all. Grace came at Calvary—out-poured in the crimson stream that flowed from the wounded side of the Son of God. It is grace that has delivered from bondage to law keeping. "There is no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus."

How many children of God fail to understand that the finished work of Christ has brought a perfect salvation. It is a free gift. It demands nothing. It is sufficient. There are those who teach that we must obey the Ten Commandments to keep saved. Others emphasize works of obedience as necessary. How contradictory. "Grace is everything for nothing." To add any work of mine is to discount and render imperfect the sacrifice of Christ. "Hallelujah, it is done." "Trust" is the open sesame of the believer. "Only believe" sums up the works—God does the rest. "Instruments of righteousness" for His use. No fear, no worry about being saved, but "peace and joy in believing."

Free from the law, oh, happy conditional! Jesus has died and there is remission! Cursed by the law and bruised by the fall, Christ hath redeemed us, once for all.

A MAN OF INTEGRITY

A physician who reaches out to benefit humanity leaves a record behind him that is worth while. Such a man was Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. He was an eminent physician, a leading and honored citizen, known for his honesty and executive ability. His study along medical lines, and his knowledge of the remedial qualities of herbs and plants led to the discovery of his wonderful herbal remedy, Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the woman's tonic which has had the greatest number of supporters for the past fifty years. It is just the herbal tonic required if a woman is borne down by pain and sufferings at regular or irregular intervals, by nervousness or dizzy spells, headache or backache. Favorite Prescription can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid at most drug stores.

"Augean Stables."

Augeas, king of Elis, kept a herd of three thousand oxen in his stables, which had not been cleaned for thirty years. Hercules performed the labor of cleaning them in one day by turning into them the rivers Alpheus and meander. This is the account given in various mythologies. The phrase is used to signify an accumulation of corruption almost beyond the power of man to remove.

MOKENA

Saturday and Sunday were the coldest days Mokena has experienced in many years. The thermometer went down to 23 below zero Saturday and many autos that ventured out were frozen up on the road and Cooper & Hostert of the local garage were kept busy all day towing in frozen cars. The garage was so packed with cars that the fumes of the gases came near over coming the garage workers. They strated feeling dizzy and ill so the garage was opened wide to let fresh air in which soon remedied the situation.

The local coal dealers were kept busy delivering coal from early morning until night. Train service on the Rock Island was hampered by the extreme cold and most of the trains were from half an hour to several hours late.

The following officers of the Will County Milk Producers Association were elected at Crete Monday: President, Wm. Koelling, Crete. Directors Wm. Schrage, Crete, Adam Reuder, Crete and Clarence Cleveland, Frankfort.

Adam Miller, local mason who has been residing in the Scheiblich residence will move to Joliet soon. L. Rosenberg who is living in the Stellwagen place will move into the Scheiblich place soon as it is vacated.

Miss Edna Schmuhl entertained the sewing club Thursday afternoon.

WM. KREIS, Pastor.
The annual business meeting of St. John's congregation was held as customary, in the afternoon of Jan. 2. In spite of the extremely cold weather a goodly number of members were present. This meeting was another one of harmony and good-will. The reports indicated that our church had not been idle in the past year. We had the pleasure to receive twenty new members into the fellowship of the church. Following voting members have joined at this meeting: R. Marks, Mrs. Marie Marti, Mrs. Rose Moriarty, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bischoff, Communicant member, Frank Bischoff, Jr.

The financial reports showed decided gains over the preceding year.
The result of the election of new officers for the following year was as follows—Church council, Messrs. Vic Yunka, Albert Cappel, Ed Maus, Wm. Bechstein, cemetery board, E. P. Krapppe and C. Schankelsen.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Messrs. Wm. Schmuhl, Wm. Keuch and William Niethammer, the retiring members of the council who had served on the board for many years and served faithfully. Hearty thanks and a rising vote was also extended to the pastor the building and finance committee, the Ladies' Aid, Brotherhood, Young People's League, Sunday school and church choir, as well as to all the members and friends for the service they had rendered and the contributions they have made toward the new church and the interest they have manifested to do the Lord's work in our community. The pastor's salary was raised, which is appreciated indeed in these days when everything is very high.

St. John's congregation is beginning the year with the brightest prospects before it. Yes, there are certainly reasons for being thankful, therefore, we say: "Soli Deo Gloria."

Satisfactory Remedies to Control Hog Vermin

The following remedies, any of which will prove satisfactory, are suggested by V. L. Starkey, chief of animal husbandry, South Carolina A. and M. college, in answer to inquiries from farmers on this subject.

1. Crude Oil Treatment.—This is the most widely used treatment for hog lice. It should be applied to the hogs by pouring it down the back and rubbing it over the entire body, taking pains to see that the head and ears are well covered. One application of crude oil, provided it is thorough, will eliminate hog lice. Of course, in all cases it is necessary to clean up the hog houses and sleeping places and disinfect them with the same preparation.

2. Coal Tar Products.—By taking an ordinary coal tar preparation, you may be able to control hog lice. As in the case of crude oil, the application of this material should be thorough. When a coal tar preparation is used it is necessary to repeat the treatment in ten days, because the lice are killed, but the nits are not.

3. Oil From Garages.—Oil from garages which has been drained from the motors has been used very satisfactorily to control hog lice. However, some of the oil which is obtained from garages has a great deal more kerosene in it than others and when this is the case it sometimes blisters.

Oils are also beneficial in laying dust, which is almost as injurious to hogs as lice.

Balloons.
The little whistling balloons being sold on the streets or given away with purchases of candy give two great thrills to the young folks—once when they expand grandly and once when they burst.

King Oberon is a very meek husband when he has no power, but during his hour the Queen has a great deal to contend with, and one day she decided something must be done to make him behave when the hour between day and night came around.

King Oberon had always had a very easy time living in the fairy palace. He was waited upon and never had to do any work at all. But one day the Queen ordered him to scrub the palace inside and out.

Of course he made a great fuss and said he was a King and it was degrading for him to work, but the Queen only answered that he must work or she would use her power to make him something else than a Fairy King.

This so scared Oberon that he took off his crown and kingly robes and called for a pail and brush and went to work.

Storing Seed Corn So It Will Dry Out Thoroughly

When seed corn has been selected in the field, the ears will contain a large amount of moisture, and if subjected to severe cold weather before the ear dries out, germination will be destroyed. The best way to handle the seed is to take the ears that have been selected to the barn or granary and store them so they will dry out as quickly as possible and not be subjected to severe cold weather. The best method of storing this seed will be so that each ear has free circulation of air around it. This may be done by tying with string or twine on lath racks or by a number of other methods.

In the winter after the corn is thoroughly dried out and the farmer has more time, he should re-sort his field-selected seed.

Hogs Need Comfortable Surroundings to Thrive

Brood sows, pigs, gilts and boars that must be kept up will not be comfortable, may suffer, and are sure not to thrive as they should, if left in small muddy pens and exposed to cold winds, sleet and snow. Regardless of what shelter and flooring for pens may cost, you cannot afford to produce enough heat with expensive feeds to keep animals warm when they are exposed to very bad weather.

It will pay to keep the hog pens dry and protected from mud, rain, cold and freezing temperatures. Hogs that are not worth protecting are not worth keeping. Those who find that they cannot afford to give their hogs clean and comfortable surroundings might as well dispose of the animals and get individual animals that are worth taking care of.

Increasing Oats Yield Is Now Being Produced

Nearly a quarter of the oat acreage of the United States is at present producing at least one to two bushels of oats more to the acre than formerly, as a result of the introduction by the bureau of plant industry of the now popular and widely distributed varieties, Swedish Select and Kherson (Sixty-day) oats. Prior to 1900 these two varieties were practically unknown in this country, but today they are grown on about 9,000,000 acres, the former variety being grown on almost 10 per cent of the total oat acreage and the latter, including selections made from it, on about 14 per cent.

One of the hardest things to understand is how the fellow who used to ride to work on a street car—and got there on time—now seems to think he has to drive past all the street cars in town to get down to work at the same hour.

"Big Ben."

The name Big Ben was given to the bell in the clock tower of the houses of parliament, London, England, after Sir Benjamin Hall, who was the chief commissioner of works at the time the bell was cast.—Literary Digest.

Ancient Washtubs of Greece.

Owing to the scarcity of wood and metals in Greece, washtubs are seldom seen. In the little village of Khasia, near Athens, the women have utilized stone sarcophagi that are more than 2,000 years old.

Ancient Gas Attacks.

Gas attacks as a means of overcoming an enemy are recorded as far back as 189 B. C., when jars were filled with feathers which were set alight, the smoke being blown with bellows into the faces of the foe.

Giving the Telephone Life

WHEREVER your thought goes your voice may go. You can talk across the continent as if face to face. Your telephone is the latch to open for you any door in the land.

There is the web of wires. The many switchboards. The maze of apparatus. The millions of telephones. All are parts of a country-wide mechanism for far-speaking. The equipment has cost over two billion dollars, but more than equipment is needed.

There must be the guardians of the wires to keep them vital with speech-carrying electrical currents. There must be those who watch the myriads of tiny switchboard lights and answer your commands. There must be technicians of every sort to construct, repair and operate.

A quarter of a million men and women are united to give nation-wide telephone service. With their brains and hands they make the Bell System live.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

RUNNING TIDES

WHERE the oceans, seas and rivers are, where happiness dwells, where progress wends its way among the nations, the tides are running day and night in perfect harmony with the mysterious force which is prompting, swaying, driving and compelling every animate creature to action.

Slowly we learn that these unforeseen tides which seem so irresistible, so destructive to our fondest dreams and aspirations, can be made subservient to our wishes, and how by a stroke or two we may swim strongly with their currents and reach our goal.

To some of us the very thought of the constant motion of these tides suggests that they are opposing us, seeking to sweep us under, when in reality they are intended to develop our prowess to keep our heads above the waters and carry us safely on to our destination in spite of ourselves.

We balk at doing this or that because of opposition. We lack the courage to breast the flood. In a moment of despair we feel that it is preferable to destroy our ambitions and forget them than to make the fight.

It is pleasanter to sit by the fire and picture castles in the air than it is to erect them on a substantial foundation. And frequently, while we are thus idly dreaming, the tides pick us up and whirl us off to some destitute island. If in our temporary isolation we regain our senses and see ourselves as we really are, we summon our spiritual and physical strength and strike out boldly for the main land.

Whatever our sensations may have been in the grip of such emotions, if we have within us the right qualities, we are likely later in our careers to become more earnest, capable and patient.

The old egotism, narrow selfishness and churlish temper, which were pulling us down beneath the waters, have scurried away.

We have become more charitable, more neighborly, more inclined to pull with the tides than to oppose them when opposition is of no avail. We heed cheerfully the advice of our superiors instead of rejecting it with ugly words of protestation or rising up in rebellion against well-meant authority.

And this is as it should be. The secret of success is to know when to buffet the tides and when to float complacently with them.

'Tis Something to Have Lived

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IT is something to have lived a minute, However long the after-years, An instant with an aeon in it, Too glad for smiles, too sad for tears.

For in that instant heaven nears, For in that moment God has found us— Earth nevermore but earth appears, Whatever shadows gather 'round us.

'Tis something to have lived a little, One little hour, however small; However brief, however brittle, However soon our castles fall, Oh, it is something to recall— To sound the depths, to walk Parnassus,

In one short hour to live it all, Though love may fall us, fortune pass us.

'Tis something to have lived completely, If only for a moment's span, Have lived a moment madly, weedy, Have lived the floodtide while we can.

Whatever skies we ever scan, Whatever books we ever conned us, It is the hour God whispers man That there is something yet beyond us.

U. S. WINS EXCESS RAILWAY PROFITS

Supreme Court Allows Split of All Earnings Over 5.75 Per Cent.

Washington. — Provisions of the transportation act requiring railroads to divide with the government their excess earnings above the 5.75 per cent fixed by the interstate commerce commission as a reasonable return on their valuation were sustained by the Supreme court.

The attack on the constitutionality of the recapture clause was brought by the Dayton-Goose Creek Railway company of Texas, but when the case reached the Supreme court, nineteen of the most important railway systems of the country joined in it.

Describing the transportation act as legislation intended to build up a system of railways, and to give the owners of the railways an opportunity to earn enough to maintain their properties and equipment in efficiency, Chief Justice Taft declared that the railroads had been placed more completely than ever under the guardianship and control of the interstate commerce commission.

He pointed out that the commission's functions were no longer limited to the fixing of reasonable rates and the prevention of those which are discriminatory.

The clauses of the transportation act which provide for the recapture of excess earnings were declared by the court "the key provision of the whole plan." The uniformity of rates decided upon as the most helpful to the weaker railroads would enable those of average efficiency, the court said, to earn the prescribed maximum return. By the recapture clauses congress is "enabled to maintain uniform rates for all shippers and yet keep the net returns of railways, whether strong or weak, to the varying percentages which are fair for them."

President Coolidge Signs Arms Embargo on Rebels

Washington.—A formal embargo on private shipment of arms to Mexico was declared by President Coolidge, the State department announced. The action was taken after representatives of the Adolfo de la Huerta faction had made attempts to buy arms and ammunitions in the United States. Washington.—The house held back the flood of pent-up oratory long enough to pass the first bill of a general public character since the Sixty-eight, congress was convened. THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"ALLIGATOR"

WHEN the alligator, the ugly crocodile of the new world, was first seen by the Spanish discoverers, they had a true insight into its species and called it "el lagarto" or "the lizard"—the article being accented because of the size of the monster. In Sir Walter Raleigh's "Discovery of Guiana," the word still retains its Spanish form, for the discoverer writes: "Sailing up the Orinoco we saw in it divers sorts of strange fishes of marvelous bigness, but for lagartos it exceeded. There were thousands of these ugly serpents, and the people call it, from the abundance of them, the river of lagartos in their (the Spanish) language."

The English sailors who brought the word home with them had probably never seen it written and naturally considered that the article "el" was part of the noun "lagarto." In Ben Jonson, who writes it "alligarta," we find the word in the process of its transformation, "alligator" being merely the Anglicized version of the Spanish name, coupled with a more phonetic form of spelling.

Not to the swift the race; not to the strong the fight; Not to the righteous perfect grace; not to the wise the light; But often faltering feet come surest to the goal; And they who walk in darkness meet the sunrise of the soul. COOKIES FOR THE FAMILY

THE cookie jar at this season of the year, to be at all popular, must be always full. Here are a few to help replenish it:

Imperial Cookies.

Take one-half cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar, two eggs, one tablespoonful of milk, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix the butter and sugar, add the beaten eggs, milk and the dry ingredients sifted together. Roll very thin and bake in a hot oven. This foundation may be used for filled cookies if desired, doubling the amount. For the filling, take one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of raisins, two tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and the grated rind of the lemon, one-fourth cupful of boiling water and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Rub the butter and flour together, add the boiling water and cook, then add the raisins, lemon juice and rind and cook until smooth. Cool before using. Roll out, cut, then place a spoonful of the mixture in the center, cover with another cookie and bake as usual. Dates, currants, figs or a combination of two or more may be used for this filling.

Hermits.

Take one-third of a cupful of butter, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of milk, one and three-fourths cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-third of a cupful of raisins cut into small pieces, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves, the same of mace, and nutmeg. Cream the butter; add the sugar, raisins, egg well beaten, and the milk. Mix the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture. Roll the cookies a little thicker than for plain ones. Bake in a slower oven.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because—

By ETHEL R. PEYSER

You Never Break a Date?

"You are really awfully common-place," "You are socially unengaged," "You seem to have little work to do." All these things have been fired at you, teasingly because you keep your dates! You are right to keep your dates! Why should you break this contract any more than any other kind of unwritten contract? To be sure, you often get "left," but you know you are right—and that's a help. Anyhow you don't have to keep "scarce" to keep rare.

Your get-away here is:

You've done your best to make both ends meet and if they do not—it's up to the other feller. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

MEN YOU MAY MARRY

By E. R. PEYSER

Has a man like this proposed to you?

Symptoms: Broad grin, large mouth, hair plastered down and parted in the exact center, fancy vest showing a broad expanse of chest, fancier tie, sleeves short, coat shorter, trousers not short enough, crazy about girls, writes to 'em, talks to 'em. He keeps marveling why he isn't a more successful fusser. He'd be longer on the "Chickens" if he wasn't so short on his coat and sleeves.

IN FACT

His clothes are his only shortcomings.

Prescription to His Bride:

Daily turn on the tap of your admiration for your other men friends' clothes.

But add to this a few ounces of appreciation for his many good points.

If You Notice An Increase
In Your Light Bill

Please remember that last summer it was eight o'clock or later before you used electric light.

If the evening was pleasant and you sat on the porch, perhaps you only used the light a short while before bedtime.

But now, when days are short, electric light in some part of the house is needed before 5 o'clock in the evening.

And, too, on winter mornings electric light is necessary from the time of arising until after breakfast.

That's why there is a slight increase in electric light bills during the fall and winter.
